CONTENTS OF VOLUME THE SIXTH.

	Page
The Chairman's Address. Major-Gen. the Hon. JAMES LINDSAY, M.P.	1
The Progress of Ordnance Abroad, compared with that of Ordnance at Home. By Commander R. A. E. SCOTT, R.N.	5
Life-boats. By Captain J. R. WARD, R.N.	30
Outpost Duties. By Colonel R. WILBRAHAM, C.B.	60
An Outline of Studies recommended to a Young Officer. By Colonel W. H. M. DIXON, R.A.	84
An Account of a Lead-covered Karrack of the Middle Ages. By Lieutenant A. T. WINDUS, H.M. Indian Navy, &c.	100
The Principles of Rifled Cannon and Projectiles. By JAMES LAWRENCE, Esq.	116
Character of Gun best adapted for Naval Warfare, as gathered from the various plans of Guns proposed. By Captain E. G. FISHBOURNE, R.N., C.B.	129
Discussion	141
Iron and Steel as Materials for Rifled Cannon. By J. ANDERSON, Esq., Assistant Superintendent Royal Gun Factories, Woolwich	185
Remarks on the proposed Spithead Forts in connection with the Advanced Sea-works advocated by Mr. W. A. Brooks, C.E., for the Defence of Portsmouth and the adjacent Anchorage. By W. A. BROOKS, Esq., Mem. Inst. of Civil Engineers	202
The Motion of Projectiles fired from Rifled Ordnance, and the Advantages obtained by the Employment of such Pieces. By Major C. H. OWEN, R.A., Professor of Art., Roy. Mil. Acad. Woolwich	220
Military Sketch of the present War in America. By Major MILLER, R.A., D.C. Topog. Staff	242
The Value of a Gymnastic Training to the Soldier. By A. MACLAREN, Esq.	263
On the Protection of the Bottoms of Iron Ships from Concussions and from Fouling. By JOHN GRANTHAM, Esq., C.E., and ROBERT MALLET, Esq., C.E., F.R.S., &c. &c.	276
On constructing, manœuvring, and propelling Screw Steamers for War and other purposes, and the Application of a Screw Propeller calculated to prevent Fouling. By Commander T. E. SYMONDS, R.N.	297
German Campaigns of Gustavus Adolphus. By BRIDGES C. HOOKE, Esq.	317
The Importance of a Knowledge of Geology to Military Men. By F. W. HUTTON, Esq., 23rd Royal Welsh Fusiliers, F.G.S.	342
On the Causes of Sickness in the English Wars, and on the Means of Prevention. By E. A. PARKES, Esq., M.D., F.R.S.	361
A New System of Artillery for projecting a Group or Cluster of Shot. By General O. VANDENBURGH, N.Y.S.M.	377
On the Disembarcation of Troops. By Captain W. R. MENDS, R.N., C.B.	391

CONTENTS.

The Shape of Sword Blades. By Mr. JOHN LATHAM. 410

The Present Condition of our Cavalry; with some Suggestions as to the Practicability of increasing its Efficiency in the Field. By Major ALFRED STOVELL JONES, V.C., D.A.Q.M.G. 423

Rifle Trajectories and Rifles. By ARTHUR WALKER, Esq., Lieutenant-Instructor, School of Musketry, Fleetwood 436

Splint for Compound Fractures. By S. STACY SKIPTON, M.D. 453

Geodesy especially relating to the Great Trigonometrical Survey of India. By Lieutenant-Colonel A. STRANGE, late H.M. 7th Madras Cavalry . . . 457

On the Use of Cylinders in laying Submarine Cables. By Captain JASPER H. SELWYN, R.N. 485

Military Training, considered principally with reference to the most advantageous arrangement of the Daily Exercises and Occupations of Private Soldiers of Infantry. By Lieutenant-Colonel A. CUNNINGHAM ROBERTSON, 1st Battalion 8th King's Regiment 497

The Lines of London; Defence by Works and Manœuvre in the Field, &c. By Colonel R. A. SHAFTO ADAIR, F.R.S., A.D.C. to the Queen 521

Barracks. By Lieutenant-Colonel J. B. COLLINSON, R.E., Instructor of Military Architecture, Royal Engineer Establishment, Chatham 539

The War in New Zealand. By Captain C. PASLEY, R.E. 559

Description of a serviceable Field Work, the Omata Stockade, Taranaki, New Zealand. By Colonel Sir J. E. ALEXANDER, K.C.L.S. 14th Regiment . . 595

Proceedings of the Thirty-second Anniversary Meeting i

Address of the Right Hon. Sir FREDERICK W. GREY, K.C.B., First Naval Lord of the Admiralty xiii

Statement of Changes among the Members during 1862 xv

Tabular Analysis xv

Donations xvi

New Members during 1862 . . . 1, 100, 116, 391, 410 . xvi

Additions to the Library:—

Books presented xviii

Books purchased xxii

Maps, Plans, Sketches, &c., presented xxiii

Additions to the Museum xxv